ARTIST AND ART BOOKS 2020

Comic Books and Graphic Novels are a visual medium, and their success is not only dependent upon a great story, but equally great artwork. From the Golden Age of Comics to the present day, names like Kirby, Ditko, Toth, Buscema, Steranko, Adams, Golden, Ploog, Trimpe, Heck, Barks, Eisner, and hundreds, if not thousands, more, have brought the words of comics' writers to life via their illustrations and covers. This month, we pay tribute to comics' great artists via collected editions, how-to's and best of volumes dedicated to their works. On pages 226-227 we present some of our favorite offerings for the month. But you can find plenty of additional titles throughout this issue of PREVIEWS, just look for our "Artist & Art Books" icon!

Marvel Comics #1 Sells for $1.26 Million at Heritage

Marvel Comics #1 CGC 9.4 became the latest comic to cross the seven-figure mark during Heritage's Comic and Comic Art Auction. Finishing at $1.26 million, the book comes from the Windy City pedigree and is the only copy in the CGC census at that grade, with none higher. The issue joins Action Comics #1, Detective Comics #27, and Amazing Fantasy #15 as the only comics to date to hit or top $1 million.

The original art side also saw incredible results, including Robert Crumb's Your Hytome Comix #nn original "Stoned Agin!" inside back cover art that sold for $690,000 and Neal Adams' Batman #251 original cover art for "The Joker's Five-Way Revenge!" story that hammered for $600,000.

Hake's Sets World Record with Boba Fett Prototype $185K Sale

During their latest premier auction, Hake's Auctions sold a Boba Fett J-slot rocket-firing prototype for $185,850, setting a new world record. This marks the second consecutive time that Hake's set a world record for the Boba Fett rocket-firing prototype, following their sale of an L-slot variety for $112,926 in July 2019.

Hake's Star Wars sales also included a double-telescoping 12-back action figure of Ben Kenobi for $64,900 and one of Darth Vader for $62,823 and a Star Wars #3 original art page by Howard Chaykin for $33,748. Other comic highlights were Captain America Comics #1 CGC Qualified 4.0 for $44,250 and Batman #1-2 bound comic volume for $22,420.

Judge, Jury, and Executioner

Willy Hooker, the Executioner, only appeared in 1953's Detective Comics #191, created by Dick Sprang. In just one story this carnival worker turned vigilante managed to cause plenty of trouble for Batman and Robin.

Born and raised in the lower class of Gotham, Hooker was as a carnival worker with some creative ways to make additional money. Going by the Executioner, he would release violent criminals from prison, to catch them, kill them, and collect the reward. Fortunately for Hooker, Gotham City is not lacking in its criminals. In his debut appearance, Hooker organized a jailbreak for Sam "Sleepy" Briggs. After shooting the inmate, he announced the kill as the Executioner and claimed his bounty from Commissioner Gordon.

Please tell us a bit about yourself!

I've been telling stories in comic books professionally now for 35 years. In 1984 I was assigned the Japanese cartoon based Robotech series for Comico Comics — I then co-created Eagle, which my partner, Rich Rankin and I self-published. I was lucky to have gotten work in many books through the years, including:

Superman Adventures; Tarzan the Warrior; Untold Tales of Spider-Man: Strange Encounters; Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles; Jonny Demon; Teenagents; Congorilla; Fright Night; Ninjak; Parliament of Justice; The Black Forest 1 & 2 (winners of two RONDO Awards!); The Wicked West 1 & 2, and Dr. Strange: From the Marvel Vault #1. I've left quite a few out due to space and humility... well, okay... just for space.

What are your favorite projects you've contributed to over the past decade?

I've happily been able to release new Eagle and Death's Dark Angel books, along with Dark Tales from the Vokesverse (#1/DEC161213; #2/JUL191505) with writer Jack Herman, through the American Mythology company. They also had me do a Zorro cover, and I co-created a Hammer Film homage series called Flesh & Blood with filmmaker Robert Tinnell (Feast of the Seven Fishes); we've done three volumes so far. I've also done a short story with writer David Zuzelo for The Living Corpse: The Hexx Files book by Buz Hasson, Ken Haeser, Blair Smith and writer David Michelinie.

What are you currently working on?

I'm working on more issues of Dark Tales from the Vokesverse with American Mythology, and an Eagle graphic novel called The 7 Plagues of Dracula.

What fun titles are you reading?

I've enjoyed American Mythology's Edgar Rice Burroughs' Universe titles The Land That Time Forgot (Vol. 1/SEP171121), Pellucidar (Terror At the Earth's Core/APR191358), The Moon Maid (Reader Set/NOV191417), and Carson of Venus. I especially liked their reprint of Michael Kaluta's Carson of Venus work originally published by DC in the '70s. Horror anthologies like Beware the Witch's Shadow (MAY191376) had a great retro feel like the old Creepy and Eerie mags from Warren Publishing.

USER'S GUIDE

There's a lot of awesome comics and products to look through in PREVIEWS. "A lot" might be a bit of an understatement, as each month's catalog is filled with hundreds and hundreds of pages of upcoming comics and related merchandise! It can be easy to accidentally overlook a new series you've been dying to read or a figure you've been pining to add to your shelf when there's so many things to browse. That's why we've put together this guide to help you learn how to use PREVIEWS like a pro to order the awesome titles and products you want!

WHAT EXACTLY IS PREVIEWS?

PREVIEWS is part catalog, part magazine (we call it a Mag-a-log!) of monthly listings of all of the upcoming comic titles and related products from your favorite publishers and manufacturers in one convenient place. And don't worry—PREVIEWS is organized by publisher and product type (and color-coded to boot!), to make it easy to find and flip to the section or items you're looking for. Each item listing has the information you need, such as format, size, page count, price, release date, stock or item code, and descriptive text, and nearly every listing is accompanied by artwork or images.

The most important aspect of PREVIEWS to remember is that items solicited in the catalog are anticipated to ship 2-3 months later (or more). For example, if you found a comic you wanted in the May issue of PREVIEWS, you can expect to see it turn up in your local comic shop in July. The catalog can be a great resource for figuring out where your favorite comic series is going, or for discovering new ones that you'll want to add to your library—not to mention all the other awesome products!

HOW DO I ORDER FROM PREVIEWS?

When you've picked out all of the items you want, you can fill out the Short Order Form included in your copy of PREVIEWS and submit it to your local comic shop. You can also ask your friendly neighborhood retailer about obtaining a Customer Order Form, a booklet that contains a complete listing of all the items made available for that month. These forms make pre-ordering your comics and products a breeze and can help your local comic shop decide what to stock in the store for other customers, too! Be sure to also ask your retailer about their pullbox or subscription service. Once you've submitted your order, you can sit back and relax, or try to contain your excitement until your comics and merchandise arrive!

SNEAK-PEEK AT THE YEAR AHEAD FOR BESTSELLING BLADE RUNNER 2019 SERIES!

A new life awaits you in the Off-World Colonies as the critically-acclaimed Blade Runner 2019 comic series continues its astronomic success.

With both issue #8 of the bestselling series and an exclusive Free Comic Book Day one-shot story appearing in the Titan Comics section of this Previews, we sat down with co-writer Mike Johnson, who created the series with Oscar-nominated screenwriter of Blade Runner 2049 Michael Green, to find out what lies in store for the year ahead.

MIKE JOHNSON

What has been your reaction to the high praise Blade Runner 2019 has received?

My sigh of relief will last a few more weeks at least. We knew we were taking a risk by introducing a new protagonist and a new story, but fans have really embraced it. As much as we all love Rick Deckard and Roy Batty, I think everyone is keen to see new corners of this world.

What would you say to fans that have yet to read this original Blade Runner comic series?

You don't need to have seen either of the movies to understand and enjoy it. If you like detective stories, or complicated heroes, or futurism, or film noir, there is something here for you. Also flying cars!

How have you and your fellow co-writer Michael Green decided where to take the story next?

I go off and write the initial drafts, and then we kick them back and forth and Michael sprinkles his magic on the final product. For the upcoming story, we've tried to detach ourselves from what we think should happen, and embrace more of what surprises, shocks and delights us.

What can you tell us about how the story will develop in the second arc?

Without spoiling anything, I can say that we jump forward a few years and meet Ash in a place we have all wanted to go for a long time: the Off-World Colonies.

As the Off-World Colonies are only mentioned but never actually seen in the films, how did you approach writing the story for this location?

We have deliberately steered away from the first thoughts that occur to us when picturing the colonies. We definitely want to give our brilliant artist, Andres Guinaldo, the room to create magnificent visuals, but we also want to make sure that the reason we visit a particular colony is rooted in the story we are telling, and the characters driving that story.

We now know that there is going to be a Free Comic Book Day edition of Blade Runner?

Can you tell us anything about how this is going to fit into the overarching story?

We are thrilled to be part of Free Comic Book Day 2020. We are using the opportunity to reveal more about Ash's past, and to take a peek behind the Tyrell Corporation's curtain, in ways that will come to bear on the main series.

How do you think Ash has changed since we first met her in issue #1? Will we see a different side of Ash in the second arc?

We will indeed. Ash didn't have a chance to take a breath in the first arc. When we meet her again years later, we see the toll those events have taken on her. She's still the Ash we know and love, but circumstances have taken her to places she never imagined she would ever go.

Check out the Titan Comics section for more information about Free Comic Book Day and to stock up on the series so far !

TRANSFORMERS TERMINATOR

MEET THE CREATIVE TEAM
BEHIND THE EPIC CROSSOVER,
TRANSFORMERS VS. TERMINATOR!

Autobots and Cyborgs collide in this epic Transformers vs. Terminator crossover! Uncover the mysterious background, current projects, and favorites of writers John Barber, Tom Waltz, David Mariotte, and artist Alex Milne in this exclusive interview!

PLEASE TELL US A BIT ABOUT YOURSELF!

JOHN: Well, I grew up in the American southwest, then in Los Angeles, kinda on the run. My mom was a little eccentric and my dad was a soldier from the future, so—you know, I never really thought about the coincidence, but I guess I've always had a little bit of a personal connection to Terminator.

TOM: I was created in the future to return to this moment in time with the sole purpose of sabotaging this interview and make it like it never happened. Or maybe the truth is that I grew up in a little country village called Clinton, Michigan, spent some time in the Marines after high school, eventually got married to a lovely lady from SoCal, have two great kids, three annoying huskies ("Let me in! Let me out! No—wait! Let me in!"), and have worked at IDW Publishing since 2006 in various roles... to now include interview Terminator from the future!

ALEX: I am a Canadian-built drawing cyborg with the mission to draw flashy robots and sci-fi in outrageous situations. I don't eat (I do), I won't sleep (I will), and I won't stop ever until I have drawn it all.

DAVID: After graduating college from under the watchful eye of Tucson, Arizona's SKYNET system (a real thing!), I returned to my home of sunny San Diego and unearthed the stories of incredible robotic warriors. As the Transformers editor (among many other duties), I've watched their war tear apart worlds and end universes, and now, for the first time under my pen, it comes back to Earth and face-to-face with the T-800!

WHAT ARE YOUR FAVORITE PROJECTS YOU'VE CONTRIBUTED TO OVER THE PAST DECADE?

JOHN: I had a really long run writing Transformers comics, and I'm really proud of the work we did on those books. Plus I got to work with Alex and David on them, so that's really great.

TOM: I just finished up a long run writing Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles (100 issues!) working alongside the best teammates in the world: Bobby Curnow and, of course, Kevin Eastman (along with an equally awesome rotating crew of artists and designers). I've also been the editor for IDW Publishing's Ghostbusters comics for nearly a decade—a property and job and personal/professional association that I hold very dear. Those definitely top my list, with my own creator-owned projects like The Last Fall, Children of the Grave, and After The Fire (all from IDW) right in the mix.

ALEX: The project I'm most fond of has to be ROM vs Transformers: Shining Armor. It was the most fun I have had working on a comic and I got to work with John on it.

DAVID: I've worked on multiple iterations of Transformers comics, which has meant I've gotten to work with John, Tom, and Alex in various capacities, and I'm glad I finally get to work with all three of them at once! Also, I edit the Sonic the Hedgehog comics and those are incredibly fulfilling!

WHAT ARE YOU CURRENTLY WORKING ON?

JOHN: Being Editor-In-Chief at IDW takes up most of my time (plus having a couple kids, one very tiny) but I'm working on a creator-owned project with some long-time friends and collaborators.

TOM: I've got plenty of fun stuff to keep me busy behind the scenes as IDW's Manager, Creative Development/Senior Editor, but I'm also writing for a very special TMNT project/collaboration with Kevin Eastman, Peter Laird, and Andy Kuhn called The Last Ronin that will be available in Summer 2020. Look for more exciting news about that soon!

ALEX: I am currently working on the second part of two issues of Transformers Galaxies which features Cliffjumper.

DAVID: Besides Transformers vs. Terminator, obviously, I'm editing a full line of Transformers comics (at least 3 a month!), a line of Sonic comics (including the 2020 Annual), and many, many more books—some of which have yet to be announced. I also have another writing project coming up in the not too distant future!

WHAT FUN TITLES ARE YOU READING?

JOHN: I love what Jonathan Hickman and Leinil Francis Yu are doing on X-Men (along with everybody else on those books) but I've been blown away by the work Tom and co. did on Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles in the run up to issue 100 (and what Sophie Campbell has done since).

TOM: So many good titles! We've got tons of great stuff coming out of IDW and Top Shelf these days, which we editors are absolutely lucky to have front row seats to as they are being created (most notably in my case, Brian Ruckley's amazing new take on the Transformers). But as for a non-IDW book, Jillian and Mariko Takaki's wonderful YA coming-of-age tale This One Summer is something I picked up recently and thoroughly enjoyed. Oh... and Jonathan Hickman and Tom Coker's deliciously conspiratorial The Black Monday Murders is the straight-up bee's knees, no doubt about it!

ALEX: Currently, I am reading Batman: Curse of the White Knight by Sean Gordon Murphy who also illustrates the series. I have started to reread some older comics in my collection such as Danger Girl by J Scott Campbell and Battle Chasers by Joe Madureira.

DAVID: I've been having a great time with TMNT as that's built up to the 100th issue and beyond! I have a real soft spot for both Paul Allor and Chris Evenhuis and they (with Brittany Peer) have been doing a fantastic new G.I. Joe book! And I've gotten to read the next Canto story and am very excited for that to have its second series after the amazing job David Booher, Drew Zucker, Vittorio Astone, and Deron Bennett did on the first one!

2000 AD INTERVIEW

Rebellion's brand-new 12-issue monthly Best of 2000 AD is billed as the ultimate gateway to the Galaxy's Greatest Comic-Con sale one week before Free Comic Book Day's issue zero the series is precision-engineered for new readers.

Best of 2000 AD boasts new covers from all-stars like Jamie McKelvie, Erica Henderson, Becky Cloonan, Annie Wu and more, along with a package by superstar designer Tom Muller, whose recent credits include re-branding the X-Men line. Rebellion Publishing Co-ordinator Owen Johnson sat down with the critically acclaimed designer to discuss Tom's design inspirations, the legacy of long-running titles, and how to stand out on the comic racks.

Owen Johnson: You're one of the most prolific graphic designers in the comic book industry right now, and one of the few who can be described as an auteur. With so many comic books arriving in stores every week, how do you create designs which break out from the pack?

Tom Muller: I always look for something that breaks the expectations when you look at a comic, by looking at comics as part of a much bigger publishing ecosystem and moving away from the tropes of "comic book design" and injecting it with modernity and a relevant language that speaks to pop culture, art, and design.

Owen Johnson: 2000 AD is gifted an unbroken publishing run since 1977 and over 2,000 issues. It has such an incredible legacy. What's your relationship with 2000 AD?

Tom Muller: Growing up in Belgium I never had the opportunity to read 2000 AD growing up, although the Dutch comic book market did publish translations of the Judge Dredd Eagle Comics where I discovered The Cursed Earth and Judge Death. In the late '80s I, alongside my art school friends, discovered Sláine: The Horned God (which was published in the Euro BD format), which has left a lasting impression. Although I'm familiar with the stories and characters, I sadly missed out on the culture of the Progs until I moved to the UK in 2000.

Owen Johnson: We've chatted about your fondness for 2000 AD logos of the past — primarily the work of Rian Hughes and Steve Cook. What is it about that period specifically that grips you?

Tom Muller: I think that period was a benchmark for many reasons, not in the least that you suddenly had a fully formed modern graphic identity running through the magazine. Everything from the logo, the cover dress, the typography and layouts were all part of a system that looked like it came from the future and it made 2000 AD really stand out from everything else on the shelves.

Owen Johnson: Best of 2000 AD is a different animal — it's been designed for readers who have never read it, presented in its traditional format. How are you capturing this next evolution in your designs? What are your inspirations for this?

Tom Muller: The main goal is to design something that takes 2000 AD and adds a new modern interpretation to the universe. I think what makes 2000 AD so successful — and one of the reasons I think it has the legacy it has — is that it always moves with the times and reinvents itself. I see Best of 2000 AD as another moment where we do something to push it forwards.

Owen Johnson: It's been fun sending you the covers as they come in, all by incredible artists at the top of their game. How has it been designing with them in mind?

Tom Muller: Designing covers with existing art is always a challenge and a balancing act. You need to find a design — a design system rather — that can work with a variety of content without overpowering or covering up the artwork. It's always a pleasure to see new art come in when you're working on a comic, and the pieces from Jamie, Erica, Becky, and Annie are stunning — I can't wait to deface them with graphics! Kidding! (Or am I...?)

Check out the Rebellion section for more information and stay tuned to PREVIEWSworld.com to catch the full reveal of Tom's Best of 2000 AD logo!

The proverbial horse manure hits the wagon wheels in this volume. There will be no turning back.

POSTERS

When you painted posters was there a difference in how you worked?

Yes, first of all, we didn't have terrible deadlines on any of the posters we did for Marvel. We were able to spend more time on these paintings. We painted them much larger than the trading cards for the Marvel Masterpieces, which I also preferred. If I could, I would have painted everything large. I prefer a large canvas.

Also, when we would get poster jobs in, we would split them up. I painted some alone like this Spider-Man and Captain America, and Tim painted a Silver Surfer and Thanos. And some were painted by both of us.

The Captain America / Red Skull is my favorite poster painting. Joe Simon, co-creator with Jack Kirby of Captain America, was a friend of mine. Cap is my favorite Marvel superhero. I love to paint him.

SPIDER-MAN

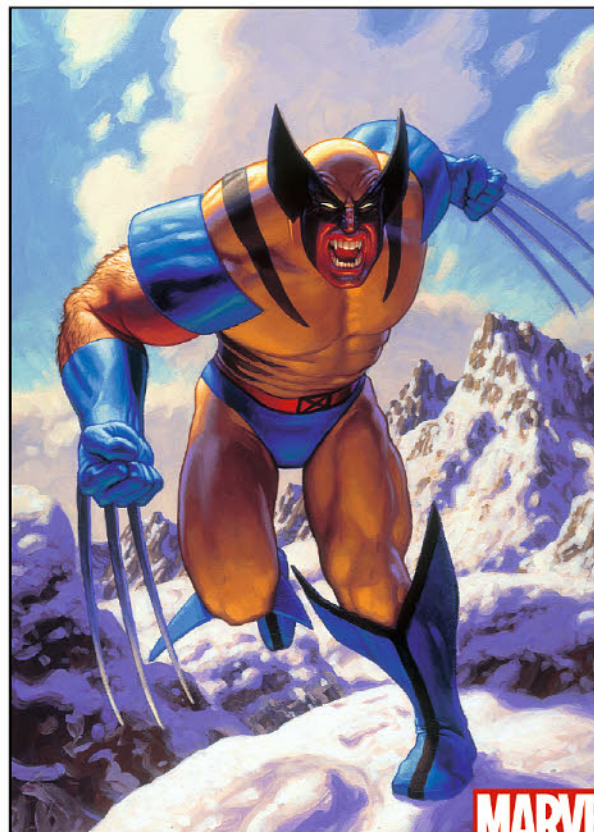

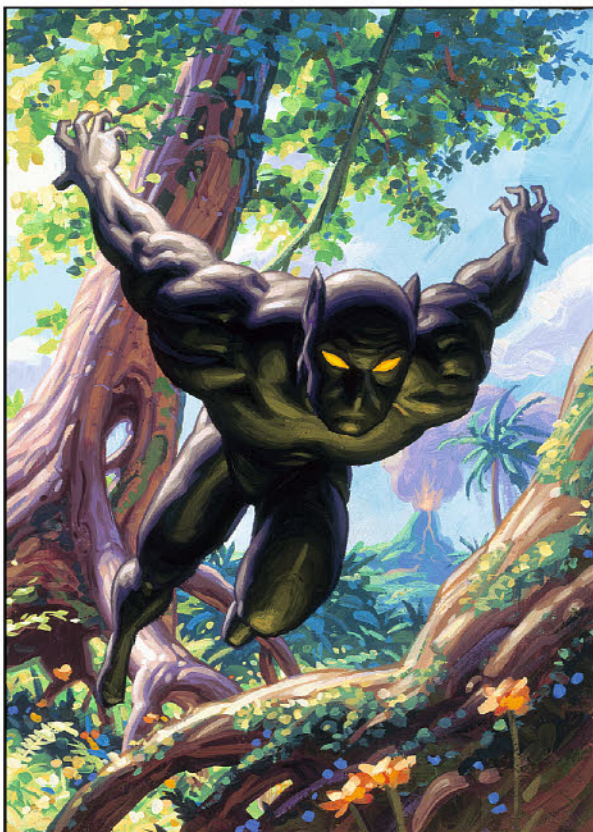

I LOVE GORGONS. IT FEELS THAT YOU CAN SEE THEM IN EVERY REMOTE CORNER FROM TOMBRAID TO THE PRESENT. BUT ONE PROBLEM AND THEY WERE OFF THE SHIP. SO THEY ALWAYS WORK WELL WITH GOOD OLD SUPERHEROS PROTECTING THE PLANET. THE FIRST GORGON I EVER SAW WERE IN THE MOVIE THE ETERNALS. ON THE SET WITH GORDON LUTHER AS GORGON. I THOUGHT THEY WERE REALLY COOL. I HAVE A POSITION FOR FANTASY CREATURES.

POSTER 1995
CAPTAIN AMERICA & THE RED SKULL

WHEN I STARTED WORKING FOR MARVEL, I MET JOE SIMON AND HIS BROTHER JERRY. WHEN I DID THE SPIDER-MAN POSTER, JOE TOLD ME HE HAD AN OFFERED HIGH COMPLIMENT. JOE TOLD ME IN REGARDS TO CAPTAIN AMERICA AND JACK KIRBY. JOE TOLD ME IN 1940—40 OLD TIMES. THEY WANTED TO CREATE A HERO TO FIGHT THEM. SO THEY CAME UP WITH CAPTAIN AMERICA. RED, WHITE, AND BLUE. IN 1941, THEY CREATED THE RED SKULL. FRODO BAGGINS. ONE OF THE BIGGEST. THE POSTER WAS IN MY STUDIO AS AN HOMAGE TO JOE AND JACK, TWO GREAT CREATORS IN THE COMIC INDUSTRY.

Fans of classic fantasy illustration, and Marvel's most iconic characters, are in for a one-of-a-kind treat with this book!

Greg and Tim Hildebrandt, collectively known as the Brothers Hildebrandt, have been at the forefront of fantasy illustration for six decades. In the 1970s, their wildly popular and universally acclaimed J.R.R. Tolkien's The Lord of the Rings calendars helped to reintroduce new generations to this seminal fantasy work.

In 1994, Greg and Tim began an amazing relationship with Marvel Comics, producing the incredible Marvel Masterpieces trading card set, featuring all of the House of Ideas' most incredible characters: Spider-Man, Captain America, Black Panther, X-Men, Fantastic Four, and so many others! That entire set is reproduced here, as well as showcasing model photos and preliminary drawings of the paintings.

Also included is the X-Men 2099 painted graphic novel by the Brothers (written by John Francis Moore), as well as a treasure trove of their entire output for Marvel, all illustrations from 1994 to today—more trading cards, posters, and others, and with insightful commentary, amusing anecdotes, and candid reminiscences by the one and only Greg Hildebrandt.

"the Australian Mark Twain" (Craig Thompson, author of Blankets and Habibi) In his follow-up to the critically acclaimed Blue, Pat Grant weaves a page-turning graphic novel about economic inequality and exploitation, desperation, and the gambler's addiction to hope even in the worst of times.

The Australian landscape is traumatized. Plague is rampant. Machines only work as well as the poor sod pedaling them. Things are hotter and wetter than they used to be, giving the whole place the vibe of a sweaty armpit.

Lippy and Penn are holding to set up shop in a grimy boom-town, but they've got to stay frosty, because it's teeming with hustlers, swindlers, and scoundrels. It's the sort of place where a lucky moron could make an outrageous fortune in an afternoon and lose it all before bedtime. The sort of place where two enterprising teenagers could really make something of themselves. Or so they say.

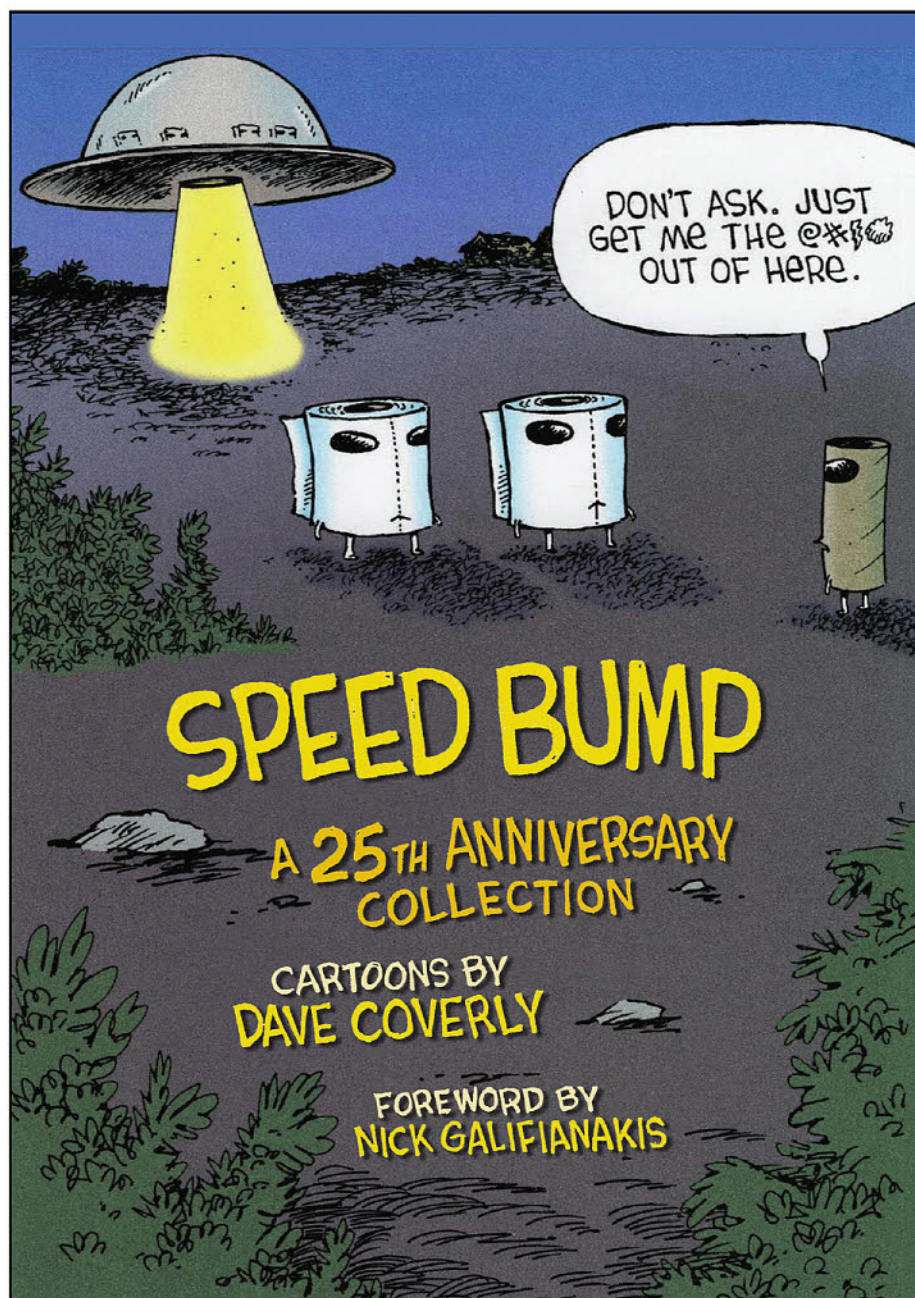

"Wholly original, enormously entertaining... a new talent that we may be enjoying for decades to come."—The AV Club

THE CHRONICLERS OF KILLING RED SONJA CHAT

So... is Sonja really going to die? That would be quite tragic.

MARK RUSSELL: Depends on what you mean by really... Reality is such a slippery concept, especially when you're a fictional character. ;)

BRYCE INGMAN: I can neither confirm nor deny the rumors that Mark invited me onto this book because I am a remorseless killer of fictional characters.

CRAIG ROUSSEAU: It's the title of the book... so there's at least a shot at it happening... right?

How will this companion series differ from the flagship RED SONJA? And how will it tie-in for fans following the whole tapestry?

RUSSELL: This is a vital piece of the main series in that it tells the adventures and tragedies of characters who become really prominent in the next and final arc of the story. So, while you could understand what happens in the main series without Killing Red Sonja, this gives a deeper, more Russian novel-like dimension to the main story, as I've tried to do with the Lord of Fools and Halloween specials. It's different in the sense that it's more of a fantasy-based story, with talking boars and monsters, that examines the role of stories themselves. It's a very different read than the main series, but with a similar goal: to explore how we are the sum of our stories, and yet, are also changed by them.

INGMAN: As Mark mentioned, Killing Red Sonja is a more "fantasy-based" story than the main Sonja title. A lot of crazy stuff was going on during the Hyborian Age, and we're having loads of fun exploring the more extraordinary corners of Sonja's world. It's deeply tied to the flagship title, and while you don't have to read it to enjoy the main book, you're probably going to be disappointed with yourself if you don't.

Bryce and Craig, what brought you to the Hyrkanian round table contributing to this book? What's the collaboration been like among the whole creative team on this project?

INGMAN: Mark is one of the best and a busy, in-demand writer, so he asked if I could help him with this project so he'd have time to sleep a few hours each week. We've added some wild new personalities to his Hyrkania, like a bounty hunter who controls flocks of birds and a single-mother giant, and these new characters will continue to play into Mark's main narrative after the final issue of Killing Red Sonja. And the brilliant Craig Rousseau, who is as adept at portraying the subtleties of the human face as he is at drawing monsters and talking boars, is the perfect artist for this project. Mark and I are lucky to have such a talented, intuitive collaborator.

ROUSSEAU: They had me at "talking 400 pound boar," and so far, I've just been trying to keep up, drawing all the stuff Mark and Bryce are throwing into the script. ...Speaking of which, back to the drawing board!

An original graphic novel starring Repairman Jack – written by series creator F. PAUL WILSON and illustrated by ANTONIO FUSO (James Bond).

Got a problem? He can fix it. He thought he'd seen the last of the Rakoshi, but one has survived. A particularly cunning and deadly Rakosh known to Jack as Scar-Lip. Now, Jack faces the fights of his life as he seeks to end the creature once and for all, before it ends him!

CREATOR F. PAUL WILSON DISCUSSES BRINGING HIS ICONIC CHARACTER TO GRAPHIC NOVELS

For readers not familiar with Repairman Jack, what's your elevator pitch for this unique protagonist and world?

I designed Jack as an anti-Jason Bourne: no black ops training, not an ex-SEAL or ex-CIA, no connection to officialdom. In other words, no safety net. No one in the government he can call on. He has to rely on his own wits and his own network. He's something of an anarchist who's never filed a 1040 and lives totally off the grid. Much to his chagrin, he's been drafted into a cosmic tug of war where all humanity could become collateral damage.

"JACK IS A BLUE-COLLAR HERO. THAT'S A BIG PART OF HIS APPEAL. READERS CAN IMAGINE HANGING AT JULIO'S AND HOISTING A FEW BEERS WITH HIM."

Jack has starred in over 20 novels through your career, to resounding acclaim and sales. What do you think makes him so captivating and enduring, and now adaptable to other media?

Jack is a blue-collar hero. That's a big part of his appeal. Readers can imagine hanging at Julio's and hoisting a few beers with him. Can you imagine that with James Bond or John Wick? Hell no. Also, he's a guy with a code, an urban mercenary who hires out to fix situations. But he's not a hit man. Threaten his life or someone he cares about and you're dead — no warning, just dead. But he won't hire out for that.

Your history with comic books actually goes back quite a ways, with you contributing a couple stories to Vampirella's sister magazines at Warren Publishing. To this day you've popped into comics every once and a while. Can you tell us a bit more about your passion for the medium and what it means to bring your flagship character onto the page?

Love comics. My earliest reading materials were Vault of Horror and Uncle Scrooge. I became a Ditko fan with This Magazine is Haunted. After selling my first SF stories to Campbell at Analog in the early 70s, I tried comic scripts — Archie Goodwin bought about half a dozen of my 8-pagers but only a couple saw print. The visual medium is great for a sock in the gut in the final panel.

How has it been collaborating with artist Antonio Fuso and the rest of the creative team?

Very smooth, very responsive. But then, I've always found the comics world easier to deal with than Hollywood. Originally I was simply supposed to outline a new story and have someone else script it, but I'm too anal for that. I would have done ridiculously detailed outlines and so, if I'm gonna do that, I might just as well script it myself.

Red Sonja, paired with the half-vampire Chastity, is on the path to setting things right, restoring the timeline and hopefully saving humanity in the process. But Chastity isn't the only strange visitor from another time; Jade, Evil Ernie, and Purgatori have all come to Hyboria as well, and they've taken a shine to the savage world as an easy place to indulge their dangerous natures. They may not take so well to the notion of going home. (Plus, Ernie gets to ride a dragon, which is almost impossible where he comes from.) The She-Devil's adventure in the Age of Chaos continues here!

The cross-over no one expected is back for an Omnibus Encore, combining three volume into one epic book! Too big for the movie or television screen, Dynamite presents the ultimate, kicka** crossover tale as Ash and his Army of Darkness meets Xena, the Warrior Princess!

Chapter 1:

Written by John Layman and illustrated by Miguel Montenegro, we begin with Ashley J. Williams transported to the world of Xena and Gabrielle! Throw in the Necronomicon and an evil, little Ash taking charge of a group of fairies (the winged kind) and you've got yourselves one rollicking adventure!

Chapter 2:

After the events of their last meet-up, Ash is back in "real" time and Xena and Gabby are back where they started, but they're not going to stay there, not if the Necronomicon has anything to do with it!

Chapter 3:

Xena, Warrior Princess, has toppled nations through the force of her will. She's captained the deadliest pirate crew ever to sail the seas. She even turned her back on her past, seeking redemption for her darker acts alongside her partner Gabrielle. And yet, despite her propensity for defeating all odds, her thousand-strong army has fallen to an implacable and ancient evil. Her only recourse? To use the dreaded Necronomicon to summon Ash Williams - the wise-ass, butt-kicking, smooth-talkin' demon-killer from the future - for aid! But how can Xena save the world when that chainsaw-wielding knucklehead's every temporal mishap threatens to unravel time itself?

From the Golden Age of Comics to the present day, names like Kirby, Ditko, Toth, Buscema, Steranko, Adams, Golden, Ploog, Trimpe, Heck, Barks, Eisner, and hundreds, if not thousands, more, have brought the words of comics' writers to life via their illustrations and covers. This month, we pay tribute to comics' great artists via collected editions, how-to's and best of volumes dedicated to their works. Presented here are some of our Print Team's favorite offerings this month. It destroys their minds and they become The Varking Dead! Meanwhile, Virgil finally gets an answer from the Arby's franchising office and the infernal realms' first Arby's franchise is a GO! Unfortunately, there isn't any roast beef "down under." Fortunately, the Iron Manticore is selling his old helmets as Anti-Varking Dead protection. Cue the Giant Jurassic Zombie Aardvark. Oh, yeah. The Future. Ultra-modern megacities reward millions of their citizens with a completely funded life, with every need met, from food to housing and healthcare, in order to compete in an economic power struggle in which population is key.

But a few rural residents still cling to their independence in what last American small towns are left. When a nearby megacity pressures the people of a small town to join up or else, a young teenage girl named Clem will learn how far she'll go to defend her principles.

Written by Zack Kaplan (LOST CITY EXPLORERS, Port of Earth, Eclipse) with art from Piotr Kowalski (Sex, Marvel Knights: Hulk, The Dark Tower), JOIN THE FUTURE is a sci-fi western that examines a future where everyone must ask what your values are truly worth.

MARK RYDEN: THE ART OF WHIPPEN CREAM HC

(A/CA) Mark Ryden

Blending themes of pop culture with techniques reminiscent of the old masters, Mark Ryden has created a singular style that blurs the traditional boundaries between high and low

art. Ryden has trumped his initial surrealist strategies by choosing subject matter loaded with cultural connotation. Ryden's vocabulary ranges from cryptic to cute, treading a fine line between nostalgic cliché and disturbing archetype. A subtle disquiet inhabits his paintings; the work is achingly beautiful as it hints at darker psychic stuff beneath the surface of cultural kitsch. ## THE SNOOTY BOOKSHOP POSTCARD SET

(W/A/CA) Tom Gauld

Tom Gauld has created countless iconic strips for the Guardian over the course of his illustrious career. Gauld's weekly Guardian strips embody his trademark British humor, while simultaneously opening comics to an audience unfamiliar with the artistry that cartooning has to offer. Funny but serious, the Guardian comics allow Gauld to put his impressive knowledge of history, literature, and pop culture on full display, his impeccable timing, and distinctive visual style setting him apart from the rest. (STL092238)

SYLLABUS: NOTES FROM AN ACCIDENTAL PROFESSOR SC

(W/A/CA) Lynda Barry

Award-winning author Lynda Barry is the creative force behind the genre-defying and best-selling work What It Is. She believes that anyone can be a writer and she has set out to prove it. Syllabus: Notes from an Accidental Professor is the first book that will make her innovative lesson plans and writing exercises available to the public for home or classroom use. Barry teaches a method of writing that focuses on the relationship between the hand, the brain, and spontaneous images, both written and visual. (STK654915)

WHAT IT IS HC

(W/A/CA) Lynda Barry

How do objects summon memories? What do real images feel like? For decades, these types of questions have permeated the pages of Lynda Barry's compositions, with words attracting pictures and conjuring places through a pen that first and foremost keeps on moving. What It Is demonstrates a tried-and-true creative method that is playful, powerful, and accessible to anyone with an inquisitive wish to write or to remember. ## YOU'RE ALL JUST JEALOUS OF MY JETPACK HC

(W/A/CA) Tom Gauld

Over the past eight years, Tom Gauld has produced a weekly cartoon for the Saturday Review section of the Guardian. Only a handful of comics from this huge and hilarious body of work have ever been printed in North America, exclusively within the pages of the prestigious Believer magazine. You're All Just Jealous of My Jetpack distills perfectly Gauld's dark humor, impeccable timing, and distinctive style. Arrests by the fiction police and fictional towns designed by Tom Waits intermingle hilariously with piercing observations about human behavior and whimsical imaginings of the future. ## TRASH MARKET GN

(W/A/CA) Tadao Tsuge

Tadao Tsuge was one of the key contributors to the legendary avant-garde Japanese comics magazine Garō during its heyday in the late 1960s and early 1970s. Trash Market brings together six of Tsuge's compelling, character-driven stories about life in post-World War II Japan. "Trash Market" and "Gently Goes the Night" touch on key topics for Tsuge: the charming lowlifes of the Tokyo slums and the WWII veterans who found themselves unable to forget the war. Trash Market blurs the lines between fiction and reportage. ## PORTRAIT OF A DRUNK

By Florent Ruppert, Jerome Mulot, and Olivier Schrauwen;
Translated by Erica Mena

$29.99 / HC / 184 pgs / FC / 8" x 11"

Guy is a mediocre mariner, able enough, but also a lazy, thieving, lying drunkard. All of which makes him more real than the swash-buckling Hollywood heroes that grace most pirate narratives. This tour de force of sea-faring gallows humor is also an international event in modern comics, teaming for the first time three titans of the field: Belgian comics master Olivier Schrauwen (Parallel Lives, Arsene Schrauwen) and the acclaimed French duo, Ruppert & Mulot (The Perineum Technique).

THE MACHINE NEVER BLINKS: A GRAPHIC HISTORY OF SPYING AND SURVEILLANCE

By Ivan Greenberg, Everett
Patterson, and Joseph Canlas

$22.99 / HC / 144 pgs / BW / 6" x 8.5"

The Machine Never Blinks is a comprehensive, eye-opening picture of the use of spying and surveillance in history and legend, from the story of the Trojan Horse through 9/11 and the so-called War on Terror, including the growth of government and corporate intercepts and databases, and even surveillance as entertainment (reality TV) and convenience (smart speakers). Take a look around...Who's watching you right now?

THE ROUGH PEARL

By Kevin Mutch

$22.99 / SC / 176 pgs / BW / 8" x 10.25"

Adam Kline is stuck in a university job, surrounded by academic bores and completely ignored by the New York art scene. Miraculously, a promotion appears and a high-end art dealer expresses interest in his work. However, he keeps blacking out at the most inopportune times and his perception of reality and fantasy begins to blur...This wryly funny tale is further enlivened, as Adam contends with an eerie, pitch-black void, flesh-eating zombies, and a network of bug-eyed aliens. As if getting by in NYC wasn't hard enough!

I THINK HE'S CRAZY!

By B.K. Taylor; Foreword by Tim Allen; Afterword by R.L. Stine

$22.99 / HC / 128 pgs / PC / 8.5" x 11"

For years, cartoonist B.K. Taylor regaled the readers of National Lampoon with the goofiness of "Timberland Tales" and "The Appletons." Now Fantagraphics brings you a complete collection of Taylor's creations, showcasing all of "The Appletons," "Timberland Tales," plus more, including a foreword by Tim Allen and afterword by R.L. Stine.

NOW #8: THE NEW COMICS ANTHOLOGY

NEW FROM FANTAGRAPHICS UNDERGROUND!

OLD GROWTH

By Michael Olivo
and Niv Bavarsky

HC / 160 pgs / FC / 7" x 9"

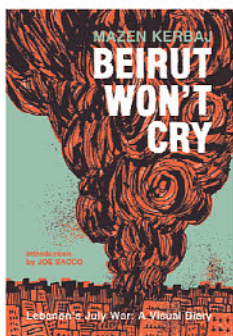

This candy-colored, visual feast of a book is an exploration of prophetic dreams, personal and cultural mythology, and blind ambition in relation to individualistic and communal philosophies.

Ultimately, these polarized mindsets manifest their flaws when brought to their extremes, and the major characters in the book are dragged and pulled about by their stubborn ideologies. Along the way, the story finds function in youth as a clumsy challenge to authority and a naive catalyst of change, while cryptic angels silently steer the fate of all below.

Sometimes, Crime Really Does Pay!

THE ROAD TO OVERSTREET 50

It's long been said that crime doesn't pay, but at least when it comes to comics, it can certainly fetch a pretty penny if you have the right books in your collection! Crime comics were once a popular genre in the medium, dating back to the Golden Age – indeed, one might be able to argue that Dick Tracy started it all back in 1931 when he first graced the newspaper pages.

The yellow-clad detective inspired many other crime stories throughout the rest of that decade and into the '40s. But the juggernaut of crime books first hit the spinner rack in 1942, with Crime Does Not Pay, created by Charles Biro and Bob Wood and published by Lev Gleason Publications. The book turned the real-life stories of figures like Baby Face Nelson and Machine Gun Kelly into sensational comic features.

And the true-crime approach worked remarkably well! Crime Does Not Pay ended up being one of the first books to rival superhero stories in terms of sales, as well as being one of the first comics to be marketed to a more adult audience.

The success of Crime Does Not Pay triggered the creation of a variety of other crime books, such as Jack Cole's True Crime Comics and Joe Simon and Jack Kirby's Headline Comics and Justice Traps the Guilty. As comics headed into the Silver Age, EC Comics had begun publishing Crime Suspense Stories and Shock Suspense Stories as well.

But, as we are maybe already aware, in 1954 the publication of Seduction of the Innocent occurred, leading to some sweeping changes in the comic industry. The book claimed that crime comics and their depictions of violence and drug use were harming the youth, and it eventually led to the creation of the Comics Code Authority.

The restrictive CCA code included the clause that strictly forbid even the word "crime" from appearing in a comic title! It effectively crippled the entire genre, and many titles ceased publication shortly thereafter.

We've fortunately been around long enough to see crime stories make their way back to the comic pages thanks to contemporary writers and artists, but perhaps nothing will ever compare to the heyday of crime books. And maybe that's what makes them so valued as collectibles, according to some of our Overstreet Advisors.

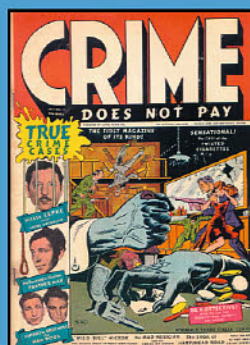

"This has been the season of resurgence in interest in Atomic Age rarities, science fiction, horror and crime books. It's nice to see the crime books getting some respect, as they were always overshadowed by horror," Superworld Comics' Ted VanLiew said. "Collectors have gotten hip to a lot of these books with cool covers and extreme stories and art. There were some nutty characters working on these books, and we love 'em! The nuttier, the better."

Given that the first issue of Crime Does Not Pay now fetches five figures in mint condition – see our sidebar here for more details – I guess we can definitively say that if you have the right books on hand, crime can pay quite a bit!

Crime Does Not Pay #22

Cover Price: 10¢

1970 Overstreet Price: $10

2019 Overstreet Price: $13,000

Known for: Being the first issue of Crime Does Not Pay, a book that dominated the crime genre during the Golden Age of comics. The book was created by Charles Biro with Bob Wood, and was illustrated by Wood with George Tuska.

Did You Know?: This is the first issue of Crime Does Not Pay, but it's not listed as a #1 because it took over the numbering from Silver Streak Comics. This debut issue featured stories and comics about true crime stories, and helped set the tone for the issues to follow.

The initial few issues sold well, and by 1948 the series was hitting 1 million copies sold per issue – an incredible number by any standard. In Crime Does Not Pay #24, the book introduced the character of Mr. Crime, a cartoon host who would introduce and narrate many of the stories. Many consider Mr. Crime to be a precursor to other such hosts, such as EC Comics' Crypt Keeper.

A quick, easy, and educational comic book guide that will help change the way we talk about sex and sexuality for all bodies.

All different kinds of bods want to connect with other bods, but lots of them get left out of the conversation when it comes to S-E-X. As explained by disabled cartoonist A. Andrews, this easy-to-read guide covers the basics of disability sexuality, common myths about disabled bodies, communication tips, and practical suggestions for having the best sexual experience possible. Whether you yourself are disabled, you love someone who is, or you just want to know more, consider this your handy starter kit to understanding disability sexuality, and your path to achieving accessible (and fulfilling) sex.

A NOTE FROM THE CREATOR

Dear Reader,

This book is exactly what it looks and sounds like: an accessible guide to sex and disability sexuality for all bodies from someone who gets it.

I wrote it because disability sexuality exists whether we talk about it or not. I drew it because we deserve to see ourselves as we are (and also because disability resources are often boring)! While I totally view it as a snarky piece of much-needed sex education, it also feels like a fun little love letter to this community that has helped me to find joy and confidence in myself and my weirdo body.

Sure, it's not an end-all-be-all resource; it's "quick and easy" after all (do you KNOW how many SEX POSITIONS there are? Limitless!). But whether you yourself are disabled, you love someone who is, or you just live on this planet and want to get with the times already, this book is for you. Thank you for reading; I'm so proud to share this with you.

Best,

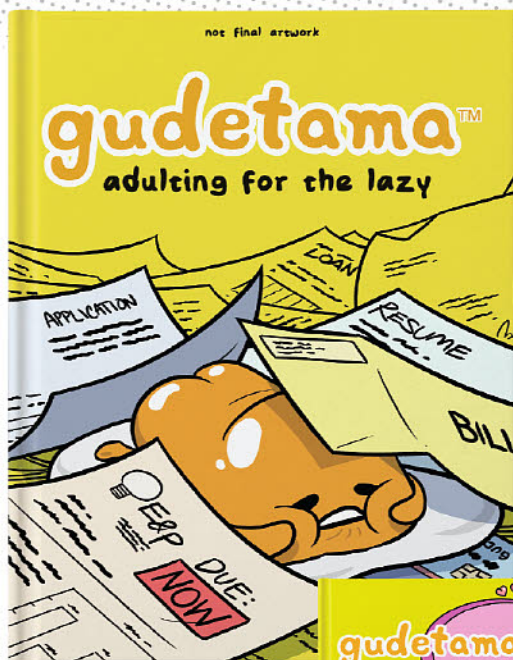

A. Andrews

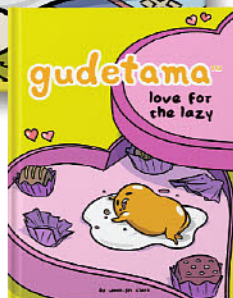

Yet somehow, despite every myth, every ounce of insecurity, and every message that tells us we shouldn't be, here we are—at a crossroads between "disabled" and "horny."

THE BOY WHO LOVED BATMAN SC
(REVISED EDITION)

(W) Michael Uslan

Growing up in New Jersey, Michael Uslan was obsessed with comic books. He'd be the first to grab the latest issues off the shelves of local stores. His favorite superhero was the brooding, crime-fighting vigilante, Batman. Despising the campy 1960s TV show, Uslan became determined to bring the real Batman - dark, serious, burdened by a tragic past - to the silver screen. Under-terred by Hollywood's initial lackluster response, Uslan went on to become Executive Producer on every modern Batman film, beginning with Tim Burton's Batman in 1989 to Christopher Nolan's celebrated Dark Knight trilogy and beyond. Warmly told and inspiring, Uslan's remarkable story is a testament both to the profound imaginative power of comic book heroes and the tenacity of the New Jersey boy determined to bring one of them to life. ### THE DAIRY RESTAURANT GN

(W/A/CA) Ben Katchor

Ben Katchor illuminates the events and ideas that led to the proliferation of the dairy restaurant in New York City. He begins with Adam entering Eden and eating the fruits therein then examines ancient protocols for offerings to the gods and the kosher milk-meat taboo. He describes the first vegetarian practice, the invention of the restaurant, the rise of food fads, and the intersection between culinary practice and radical politics. He offers an encyclopedic directory of dairy restaurants that once thrived in New York City and its environs, evoked by illustrations of classified advertisements, matchbooks, menus, and phone directory listings. And he recalls his own experiences in many of these unique restaurants just before they disappeared.

MODERN MASTERS VOLUME 7: JOHN BYRNE SC

(W/A/CA) John Byrne

From the death of Phoenix to the rebirth of Superman, John Byrne is one of the most influential comic book artists working in the business. On the X-Men, he penciled the greatest stories in the history of the title and helped propel the X-Men to their current household-name status. His work as writer and artist of Fantastic Four returned the group to prominence within the Marvel Universe. And his reboot of the Superman mythology brought national attention to the comic book industry. (STK469272)

MATT BAKER: THE ART OF GLAMOUR HC

In the early 1940s, Matt Baker became one of the earliest African-American comic book artists. But it wasn't the color of his skin which made him such a significant figure in the history of the medium. Imagine Dave Stevens or Adam Hughes working in the '40s, drawing a new story every month, and you'll have a good idea of Matt Baker's place in the industry throughout his career. Yet few of today's comic book fans know of the artist or his work, because he died in 1959 at the young age of 38, just as the Silver Age of Comics was bringing in a new generation of readers. (W/A/CA) Craig Thompson

Craig unearths the geological origins of the Ginseng-friendly Wisconsin soil, gets a grimy, back-breaking, and lucrative job of rock picking, and develops an alarming rocky lump. The issue also touches on rural gentrification, and how various varieties of Ginseng are recognized and utilized. A stunningly drawn rich tapestry of personal experience, family history, and Wisconsin's place in the global Ginseng trade. (STL146842) 6x9, 32pgs.....$6.00

COMICS AND ADAPTATION SC

COMICS AND ADAPTATION SC

(W) Aarnoud Rommens

Both comics studies and adaptation studies have grown separately over the past twenty years. Yet there are few in-depth studies of comic books and adaptations together. Available for the first time in English, this collection pores over the phenomenon of comic books and adaptation, sifting through comics as both sources and results of adaptation. Essays shed light on the many ways adaptation studies inform research on comic books and content adapted from them. Contributors concentrate on fidelity to the source materials, comparative analysis, forms of media, adaptation and myth, adaptation and intertextuality, as well as adaptation and ideology. ### MS. MARVEL'S AMERICA: NO NORMAL SC

(W) Jessica Baldanzi, Hussien Rashid

Though the Marvel-verse is becoming much more racially, ethnically, and gender diverse, many of these comics remain shy about religion. The new Ms. Marvel, Kamala Khan, is a notable exception, not only because she is written and conceived by two women, Sana Amanat and G. Willow Wilson, but also because both of these women bring their own experiences as Muslim Americans to the character. This distinct collection brings together scholars from a range of disciplines to engage with a single character, exploring Khan's significance for a broad readership. With essays from and about diverse voices on an array of topics from fashion to immigration history to fandom, this volume includes an exclusive interview with Wilson by gender studies scholar Shabana Mir. # TOY TALK: RICHARD TAYLOR

Toys, Statues and other collectibles don't just magically appear on store shelves. A lot of work goes into the concept, design, sculpting and final production of these items, and many of the people who work behind-the-scenes with companies like Diamond Select, DC Collectibles and Gentle Giant, among others, remain mostly unknown to their appreciative audience: the final consumer.

With Toy Talk, we hope to introduce you to the artisans behind some of your favorite collectibles, and to let them enjoy their well-deserved moment in the spotlight!

This month, we welcome Weta Workshop CEO & Creative Director, RICHARD TAYLOR...

PREVIEWS: With Weta Workshop's humble beginnings as a New Zealand special effects house to its legendary work on films like LORD OF THE RINGS, AVATAR, and THOR: RAGNOROK you must be extremely proud of where the company is today. What would you consider to be the core creative values that have built such a legacy for Weta Workshop?

Richard Taylor: I am indeed very proud of the extraordinary team that have gathered around us and focused on our creative pursuits from within our small Workshop in Wellington, NZ. We respect and understand that we have been given an opportunity to share some small part of our country's creative mark on the world stage and we don't take that responsibility lightly. At the heart of our company is a love of making. We keep handmade skills and crafts at the forefront of our work and feel incredibly privileged to share the products of these labours with our audiences, whether it be in film, television, location-based experiences or collectibles.

The core of our creative values is very simple: love of oneself, love of what we do, love of who we do it with, and love of who we do it for. If you don't have a 'love' for the process, the journey and the outcome, it is likely the audience aren't going to love it either. So, it's imperative to us that the passion, enthusiasm and tenacity that our team bring to their work projects flows through to our audience, in the hope they will also love the results of our creative endeavors!

PREVIEWS: Given Weta Workshop's success working in Film and TV, what was the impetus behind creating collectibles for consumers?

Richard Taylor: I'm a huge fan of collectibles — or as they used to be known, 'garage kits.' Before the pre-painted collectibles of today existed, people like myself would buy model kits of various types — famous characters, monsters, and creatures from historical films and other creations — sold in unassembled raw castings in simple boxes with a glued label on the lid. Enthusiasts around the world would predominantly sculpt and cast these models in their garages (hence the name), and then sell them to people like myself. I have purchased over 200 garage kits over the past 35 years, which I enthusiastically glue together and paint. These now adorn the small office I share with five of my colleagues, including my wife Tania.

Many years ago, I made my own garage kit based on a character from Peter Jackson's Meet the Feebles (1989). However, I never had a chance to develop this hobby into a business opportunity until The Lord of the Rings. We were incredibly fortunate to purchase a license to make 1:6th scale figurative collectibles from the motion picture trilogy. This line continues today, alongside our ever-growing range of collectibles from other iconic franchises. It's certainly not an easy business to find commercial success in, but it is a wonderful offshoot from our service work — predominantly in the screen industry — as it gives our team a chance to connect with fans and stay immersed in the worlds that we love, beyond the process of making physical effects for films or TV shows.

PREVIEWS: What do you feel sets Weta Workshop's collectibles apart from others?

Richard Taylor: There are a number of incredible companies working in this business around the world. What we have tried to instigate as our primary point of difference is an absolute authenticity to the original character and the world that character exists in. We try very hard to make our sculptures feel like they exist plausibly within the world; right down to a character's physical condition, specific expressions, type of injuries, whether they are muddled, bloodied, or their clothes are worn. We try immensely hard to give our collectors the sense that they are looking at a captured moment from the film, TV show or game that they love so much.

That said, we have also diversified and developed our own unique collectibles lines: Mini Epics, Micro Epics and Figures of Fandom. From super-stylized figures to faithfully rendered models, our collectibles are complete with the trademark characteristics of the creature, character or machine we're bringing to life. It's been wonderful to receive feedback from enthusiastic fans and see their collections expand with these new pieces we are making.

we are trying to communicate through each sculpture... all very tricky things to capture in an inanimate object! I also play a part in paint approvals and will often request subtle additions before completion. The entire process is very much a collective endeavor for a small group of my colleagues at the Workshop, as I believe that peer review serves to enhance the final piece.

PREVIEWS: What is your favorite aspect of creating affordable high-quality collectibles with lines like Mini Epics, Micro Epics, and Figures of Fandom?

Richard Taylor: We produce our high-end collectibles in relatively small numbers, often varying between 600 to 1,000 pieces of any one character. These collectibles are often highly sought-after, extremely limited and therefore add a sense of value to collectors over and above the artistic merits of the sculpture. Several people have shared their disappointment that they couldn't secure one of our Limited Edition pieces, which is unfortunate of course.

So, it's great to increase accessibility and widen our range with the introduction of Figures of Fandom, Micro Epics and Mini Epics. These 'Open Edition' collectibles aren't restricted to a specific number of reproductions. They also have the added benefit of giving our talented artists the opportunity to share their unique design aesthetic through different creative approaches.

Mini Epics in particular have allowed two Weta Workshop artists to develop their own specific art style through these ultra-expressive figures.

PREVIEWS: Do you have any dream licenses you would love to work with for future collectibles from Weta Workshop?

Richard Taylor: Having been immersed in the world of licensed product for near on 20 years, I am most enthused to see us develop original IP's for collectables here at the Workshop. To invent and then create characters from our own worlds, and produce these in the form of either unpainted, unassembled garage kits or pre-painted collectibles, is an exciting thought.

We have a great creative talent in the Workshop, many who possess their own creative ideas. I dearly hope we can find a way to realise the team's creative endeavors through collectibles that we love so much!

PREVIEWS: As Creative Director for Weta Workshop, what is your role in the process of creating the collectibles?

Richard Taylor: My role is very much part of the pipeline here at the Workshop. I share feedback and final approval on the large number of designs we create. Following this, I collaborate with a dedicated group of artists on creative input, art direction and sculpting notes on various collectible pieces. I love this part of my role, as the opportunity to work with our sculptors on fine art statues is immensely rewarding. We set out to connect people to the spirit of each sculpture. I try to bring my experience to the storytelling of the piece: the pose, the posture, the intent, the journey and ultimately the soul that

DISTRICT 9 THE BOARDGAME

From Weta Workshop. District 9: The Board Game is a competitive 2-4 player game that lets players relive the sci-fi classic through a whole new perspective. District 9

was one of the most successful movies of 2009, nominated for 4 Academy Awards including Best Picture. Written and directed by Neill Blomkamp and produced by Peter Jackson, the film explored race relations through the language of science fiction. The guns, the aliens, the vehicles, the graphic language - the world of District 9 was designed and developed at Weta Workshop. Taking on the role of a faction from the District 9 world, players vie for control of the district and its technological resources by interacting with the local population, iconic characters, and each other. The game unfolds over the 3 days in which the film's events take place. Players begin by setting up various district tiles to create a dynamic game board. A variety of different-shaped district tiles allow for the board to be unique each play through. Players then set up their starting tile at the edge of the district, simulating where they have strategically chosen to enter. Using orders to move their units around the board, and cards to augment their abilities, players lead their faction in a bid to salvage the biggest stockpile of alien technology. As the competition heats up, the unrest in District 9 escalates. Wikus' actions during the prawn evictions, and the ensuing man-hunt, drive the stakes higher and higher until the climactic finale: when Wikus dons the prawn mech suit for his heroic last stand. The player who can weather the chaos of battle, and salvage the most alien technology, is declared the winner.
